

Comprehensive Strategy in San Diego County

Major Accomplishments

Achieved in collaboration with partners/stakeholders and through leadership provided by The Juvenile Justice Coordinating Council

1. After-School Programs

- $1.2 million in FY'97-'98, $1.5 million in FY'98-99, $1.9 million in FY '99-'00 (40 programs) financed through the San Diego County Children's Trust Fund established by Board of Supervisors (BOS) on June 16, 1996. BOS authorized use of $4 million from health and mental health realignment funds.
- The San Diego County Critical Hours Program has served more than 25,000 middle school youth through 38 programs at 60 sites throughout the county and involved collaboration with 250 partners.
- The San Diego Regional Consortium has been awarded $44M by the California Department of Education to fund After School Learning & Safe Neighborhoods Partnership Programs from FY 99-03. More than 200 elementary and middle schools in 18 school districts provide services throughout the county. This regional grant application has involved over 150 collaborative partners.
- Non-weighted raw numbers of juvenile crimes in the Critical Hours program areas and juvenile suicide in San Diego County have decreased since the program baseline year (1996).

2. Community Challenge Grants

- $1.3M awarded by CA Department of Health Services to nine service providers throughout the county to develop and implement prevention programs targeting teen pregnancy and related problems.
- Programs include: sexual abstinence; mentoring; life skills training; communication/ decision making; and other interventions in order to reduce the number of unwed and teen pregnancies; reduce single-parent families; and promote responsible parenting.

3. Breaking Cycles Demonstration Project

- $6.9 million SB 1760 Challenge Grant awarded to the Probation Department (July,1997) for 3 years.
- Funds a continuum of services from prevention through graduated sanction programs.
- Prevention services consist of regional Community Assessment Teams providing intervention and counseling for at risk juveniles & their families.
- A range of services/graduated sanctions are provided to wards of the Juvenile Court including community supervision programs; day treatment; short term custody; correctional placement and aftercare services.
- Programs utilize a strength based risk/needs assessment to determine level/intensity of services needed throughout the case-management process.
- 459 youth and their families (over 1,400 individuals) received services from the Reflections day-treatment program (a residential treatment alternative) over a three-year period. Twelve-month follow-up data on 94 graduates indicate 80% of youth served have not had a new petition sustained for delinquent behavior.

3. At-Risk Youth Early Intervention Program (Community Assessment Teams)

- $2 million SB 1050 funding provided to the Probation Department for creation of direct services and additional Community Assessment Teams.
- $800,000. in foundation funds obtained from California Endowment by Funding Committee to sustain services for FY 99/00 and 00/01.
- Expands prevention services provided by teams from two to five areas of the county; serving family members 24 hrs. a day/7 days per week.
- Assessment / in home crisis support services provided to nearly 3,200 youth referred annually. The program actually served approximately 10,500 individuals based on average family size.
- Majority of clients successfully complete case management plans and are either employed or in school upon program exit. To date, 99% have not entered the juvenile justice system after receiving services.

- By serving youth at CAT sites, law enforcement and school resources expended on follow-up have been reduced.

5. Juvenile Repeat Offender Prevention Program (Project 8%)

- State funding of $442,500 per year provides wraparound services to youth under the age of 15; are first time wards; and exhibit risk factors predictive of chronic recidivism. Subsequent legislation increased the funding and extended the program until 6/01.
- A multi-disciplinary team of a Probation Officer, Social Worker, Substance Abuse Counselor and Psychologist provide integrated services to families of at-risk youth to minimize delinquency and costs of processing youth through the juvenile justice system. The team works in a family resource center (FACTOR) in collaboration with the County Office of Education and Union of Pan-Asian Communities.
- Prevention services are provided to siblings; family preservation services are provided to family members.
- Risk assessment scores are declining/ thriving scores are increasing @ 6 and 12 mo. follow-up periods. Improvement is most notable in the areas of education and criminality--the highest area of risk for these youth.

6. Gender Specific Service to Girls

- $100,000 from the Office of Criminal Justice Planning awarded to the YMCA, Youth and Family Services to provide services to adolescent girls participating in day treatment centers managed by the Probation Department. Program services include home visits; group counseling focused on gender specific issues; independent living skills; academic enrichment; employment preparation; family counseling and mentoring.
- $4.6 million state Challenge Grant II Award to the Probation Department to provide program services for more than 1,500 girls (ages 12 to 17) and their families in a three-year period (1999-2002). The WINGS (Working to Insure & Nurture Girls Success) Program includes community-based and home visiting services by a multi-disciplinary team of workers in various regions of the county.

- Formation of Girls Working Group designated by the County Board of Supervisors (BOS) to formulate a county policy and related recommendations for gender based services. Board of Supervisors adopted policy recommendations (November 1999).
- Girls Issues Working Group designated as an advisory body to the BOS to assist with guidance and monitoring of gender-responsive programs to be planned and implemented within the guidelines of Board Policy entitled "Gender-Responsive Services for San Diego County's Juvenile Female Offenders; At-Risk Young Women & Girls".
- Girls Issues Group, in partnership with San Diego County and Earth Vision Productions, produced/premiered a videotape (WINGS-What's Up With Girls) @ Porter Troupe Gallery increasing community awareness of gender specific issues (June 2001).

7. Adolescent Substance Abuse Treatment Array of Services

- Managed and implemented by County HHSA/Alcohol & Drug Services
- In addition to an existing allocation of $1.5M, funding for adolescent alcohol/drug treatment services was increased by over $1.8M annually by BOS in 1997.
- The number of youth served increased from 600 to 3,000 annually.
- Wait time for services were reduced from 12 weeks to 2 weeks or less.
- 5 additional Teen Recovery Centers were established.
- Residential capacity for adolescents was expanded; including 20 new beds for detoxification.
- Funding sources include a federal Substance Abuse Prevention Treatment Block Grant with state and county general funds administered by HHSA.
- The array of services is comprised of alcohol/drug treatment and intervention services; in-patient/out-patient treatment; detoxification beds; and residential placement services.
- In September 2000, the Office of National Drug Control Policy and OJJDP awarded the Lemon Grove Project (as lead applicant) $100,000 for a one- year period to establish a Drug-Free Communities Support Program. (Funding is renewable for a two-year period.) This program will allow community coalitions to work in a collaborative way to design substance abuse reduction initiatives; implement plans to reduce substance abuse among youth; assess the effectiveness of substance abuse reduction efforts; and provide information about best practice programs that may be replicated in other communities.

8. Juvenile Dependency Court Recovery Project

- In May of 1998, a partnership between the County and Superior Court was formed to initiate court reform in the processing of juvenile dependency cases. This project was created to reduce the time children spend in temporary foster care awaiting a permanent placement decision. Additionally, a Dependency Drug Court was established to reduce the amount of time it takes for parents of dependent children to access alcohol and drug treatment services.
- Program outcomes include reducing the time children spend in temporary foster care (from 34 mos. to 18 mos.) with savings to be reinvested in services for children.
- Preliminary statistics indicate 67% of parents, who have children that are dependent wards of the court, comply with substance abuse recovery plans.
- It is projected that case management services will be provided to 1,500-2,000 parents in the dependency system annually.

9. A Shared Structured Decision-Making Process (“Regional Resiliency Checkup”)

- A $10,000 grant award from the National Institute of Corrections and $50,000 in matching funds provided by the Probation Dept. provided resources to develop an Assessment Tool and provision of related training in use of the instrument for public agency staff and service providers.
- The assessment tool is a research based classification device being used across systems (probation, Law Enforcement, Schools, Service Providers etc.) in San Diego County since May, 1998.

- This assessment tool provides for a uniform screening and referral process throughout the region and enhances quality control in case management.
- An automated copyright version of the assessment instrument that scores and graphically portrays resiliency was released for use in 1999. A consulting firm is currently collecting data and performing scale validity tests.

10. Juvenile Drug Court

- $375,000 grant from the California Department of Alcohol & Drug Programs was awarded to the County to fund Services from September 1998 through June 2001.
- Juvenile Drug Court is a 12-month program for juveniles who have been repeatedly non-compliant in drug treatment and who need increased monitoring and supervision by the Court while living in the community.
- Program goal is to help youth eliminate dependence/addiction and achieve sobriety through day treatment program; frequent drug court appearances; out-patient services; intensive supervision; frequent drug testing; peer group support; rewards and praise for compliant behavior; immediate consequences/sanctions for non-compliant behavior.
- County general funds; state revenue (TANF); and a federal grant provide resource to manage cases and conduct an evaluation.
- Since September 1998, 90% of youth completing the program have not used substances or committed a new crime in a twelve month period following program graduation.

11. Coordinated Enforcement Plan (Data Integration/ Information Sharing)

- $1.2M grant awarded from the Juvenile Accountability Incentive Block Grant for a one-year period commencing April 1999-March 2000 with oversight provided by the Juvenile Justice Coordinating Council.
- Enables creation of a single repository of information about at-risk youth that may be shared by Superior Court with various county departments; schools; law enforcement agencies; community-based organizations and the state Central Welfare System. The juvenile justice system database will be updated/enhanced so all individual working with youth will have complete and accurate information for purposes of case management.

- An additional $1.29M awarded for one year (April 2000-March 2001) to a) implement a Community Response Officer Program (CROP) stationing Probation Officers within police facilities in 8 regions of the county to supervise delinquent wards and status offenders; b) plan for development of community resource centers; c) to develop a secure web site to share juvenile probation orders and school records.

12. Violence Prevention

- The University of California, San Diego Academic Center of Excellence on Youth Violence Prevention awarded $1.1 million for 3 years by the Center for Disease Control to empower communities to prevent and address youth violence by aligning research, education and outreach activities of the university with the needs of schools and community based organizations. (October 2000)
- San Diego Unified School District receives a three year $9 million (total) award from U.S. Dept. of Education, DOJ and Health & Human Services through Safe Schools/Healthy Student Initiative to increase/expand school-linked services for at risk youth at elementary and secondary school sites. (October 2001)

13. Federal, State, Local Partnerships/Collaborative Efforts

- Federal, state, and local funds blended to support Comprehensive Strategy staff positions and related activities.
- Site visit/ acceptance of San Diego County Comprehensive Strategy Plan by Attorney General Janet Reno (January, 1999).
- Juvenile Justice Coordinating Council expanded to 26 members by the Board of Supervisors to provide enhanced support to Comprehensive Strategy implementation (February 1999).
